Too Unique for Words

Winning the tournament. Evangelizing on a short-term mission. Leaving home for college. Finding true love.

Some experiences simply can't be described or recaptured by words. They occurred once and you savoured the moment but the memories don't do them justice. You can't summarize a college experience for someone as you pass in the hallway—there's just too much.

How do we describe Taylor University, Fort Wayne Campus? Some of us are privileged to be charter members of TUFW; some of the old-timers remember the agony and the ecstasy of the merger with Summit Christian College; newcomers have survived their uncertain expectations and become a part of this unique institution.

What lies ahead? That too is indescribable and unique, as God directs us corporately and individually. What lies ahead in these pages is a glimpse of those unique experiences that comprised the TUFW family's second year.

Freshman Orientation

A Unique Experience

New Student Orientation was both an exciting and frightening experience. For many of us it was our first time away from home. The new students all arrived on Friday and got settled in their rooms. After dinner everyone met in the A.C. and played games and got to know each other. On Saturday everyone met for devotions in Witmer. For those who weren't at the summer orientation the day was filled with tests. That night everyone got together for some more activities including a tour of Fort Wayne. On Sun, everyone went to church with their RAs. At 2:00 that afternoon, we split up into our probe groups and went to visit the professor's houses. Later that night everyone met for vespers with Dr. Jay Kesler. Afterwards we went on a brother/sister wing outing. On Monday, everyone took an interest survey. By Monday all the returning students were already back, and that night the whole school got together for some more get-to-know each other activities.

Lexington/Wiebke

Taylor Women, Unusual, Fun, Wild

Lexington Hall severed as the home for seventy-five women. The new Resident Director this year was Kim Barrantes and her husband Jerry. The 1993-1994 Resident Assistants were: Junior, Cara Glassie, Sophomore, Joy Duncan, Sophomore, Carli Dryden, sophomore, Christa Allaby, and senior, Janet Wilson. This year was the first year for all of these women to serve as resident assistants. In the fall Lexington hosted a special open house. Each wing decorated their hall and were awarded certificates.

Wiebke House was the home for ten women. The resident assistant was senior, Kari Parker. Wiebke has served as a house for upperclassmen women for two years but next year Wiebke will be for upperclassmen men.

Schultz Hall and Married Student Housing

by: Kristin Colleen O'Malley

History was made in September '93 as Schultz changed from being the "guys dorm" to co-ed residence hall. Living in Schultz dorm is "just like a family" says Sarah Mathew. It certainly took some adjusting, but men and women agree that they were able to form brother/sister friendships. Dean Arthur agrees that having a common lounge has developed an atmosphere that has been very positive.

Sarah Mathew was the first female resident assistant in Schultz. As she reflects over the last year she says it has been very good; but it hasn't been without its frustration. She comments that she has enjoyed getting to know the guys. A few more-than-brother/sister-relationships emerged throughout the year as well.

Brett Carlson says it has been "fun to have that mix—it makes things a lot more socialable." Ryan Richards jokes that when he needs to borrow something he can just ask the girls for it.

Married Student Fellowship

Married Student Fellowship this year has been active in organizing activities for this special breed. Damon and Debbie Curtis have been pointed out as the ringleaders, and have been responsible for activities.

Last fall they went on a picnic and hayride at Pastor David Biberstein's. Jay Kesler attended and gave a devotion.

Later in the year, ten couples attended a marriage enrichment seminar at Lake Placid Retreat Center. Debbie Curtis found it helpful, fun and strengthening.

Homecoming Weekend

a Time for reUnion and Fellowship: Wonderful

Homecoming weekend was enjoyed by all on October 2. In spite of a brisk day, we were able to have a picnic lunch on Witmer lawn. President Jay Kesler and Provost Daryl Yost were excited to have an informal information time to answer questions and listen to suggestions. The soccer game intensified the day by ending with a tie between the Falcons and Grace Bible College. High's Chicken Bar-B-Que,the traditional favorite, catered supper. The evening ended with a variety show which was full of diversity, fun, and laughs. Taylor faculty and students showed off their talent in front of an accepting audience. A wonderful performance was given by our homecoming queen, Dr. Robert Nienhuis. Overall, this day provided some lasting memories for Taylor's extended family.

Teaming Up to Focus on student Welfare

Taylor Student Organization was composed of five committed individuals. Tim Claassen was the student body president for the '93-'94 year. Deb Colby was the Vice President, and Lorissa Hoot filled the position of Executive Secretary. Pete Eicher was our faithful treasurer, and Jenny Fleehart was the Activities Coordinator. Carolyn Arthur was their adviser. Much was accomplished through TSO. The Hollow was remodeled mainly through the efforts of TSO, and the Hollow's availability increased in that it was possible to request it open until 2:00 a.m. A new escort service publicized the extensions of men willing to walk women back to their dorms late at night. A Judicial System allowed students to protest parking tickets and minor discipline problems before a board of students. Other suggestions were handled by our fearless leaders. Tim, Deb, Lorissa, Pete, and Jenny worked as a team in order to provide a voice for the student body.

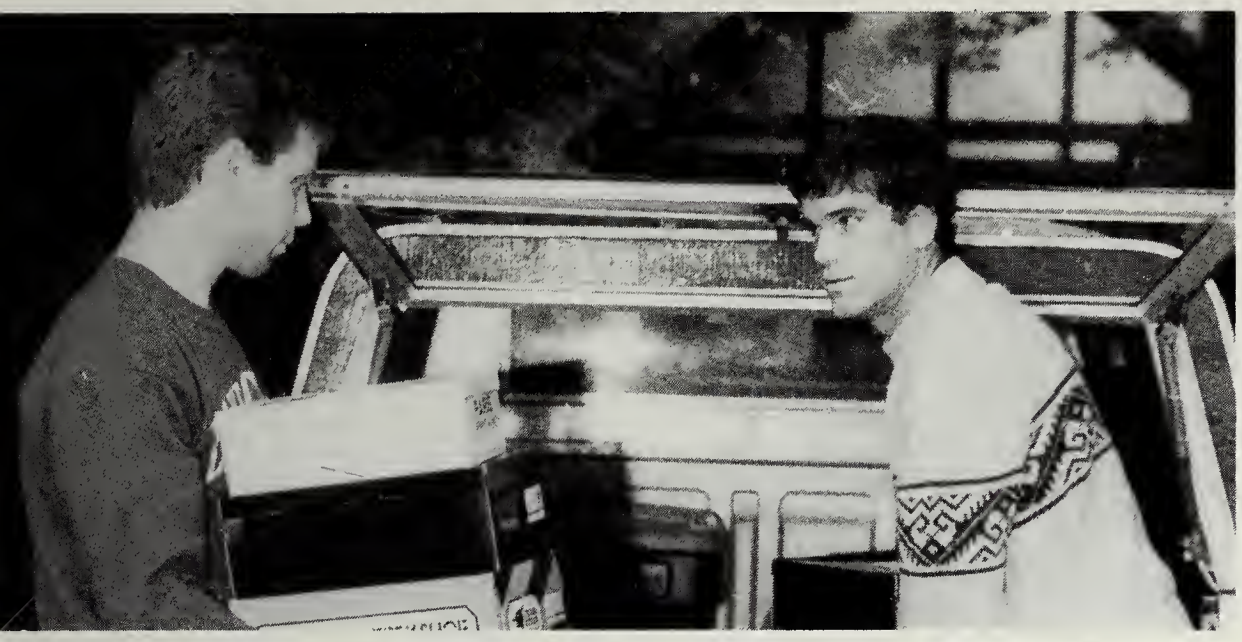
T.W.O.

Teaming Up to be Friend the World



Taylor World Outreach was a new organization on the Fort Wayne campus for the '93-'94 year. T.W.O. cabinet members consisted of Gary Rowland, Sarah Mathew, Henry Farr, Deb Colby, Hans Kindsgrab, and Meichelle Long. This group was dedicated to providing areas of community service for the student body. They were active in promoting and participating in a leaf raking day throughout the surrounding neighborhood. A Bowl-a-Thon provided an opportunity for individuals to raise money for a missions trip to Russia. World Opportunities Week was also the responsibility of T.W.O., With a focus on missions.

This group of individuals was committed to Christ and seeing fellow Christians use their spiritual gifts to reach out into their community and the world. Taylor World Outreach also provided short-term missions trips to Guatamala and New York City over spring break.

Student Activities I

Every Weekend is Nothing But Fun!

This year students of Taylor University, Fort Wayne Campus, participated in an abundance of exciting activities. At least one activity was planned every weekend by Jenny Fleehart. Many students had a great time rollerskating at the first TSO sponsored activity of the semester. The Variety Show gave students the opportunity to let their talent shine through over Homecoming Weekend. A fun time was had by all who attended the Hoedown, where students enjoyed a square dance, a camp fire and pumpkin carving. The Christmas Banquet was held on December 3rd in the Activities Center. Lynne Ford shared an oral interpretation, Ira Gerig played beautiful carols on the piano, and Carolyn Arthur read the Christmas story. Other activities included Putt Putt, midnight bowling, coffee houses, Fury games, Airband Competition, and Movie Night which was held every month. An activity-packed year kept calendars full of fun for the entire TUFW family. ask Jenny.

Spiritual Life

Trusting Unfathomable Faith & Wisdom

by: Tammy Parker

Here at TUFW opportunities for spiritual growth is abundant. There are a wide range of activities students can involve themselves in to grow closer to God. Chapel is one of these activities.

Regular attendance at chapel would seem to be the most obvious way to worship while remaining on campus. "I love to go to chapel. It's my time to praise and worship God, and sometimes it's the only way I can get through my day," says freshman Carrie Wheeler. Some students have chosen one part of chapel they like best. "I like chapel because they have good praise and worship, and it brings me to a higher spiritual plane," says sophomore Corrinne Mahorney.

These services are held every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning in Founder's Hall and are open to students and faculty alike.

Another important activity available to students are wing Bible studies and prayer meetings. "It's good to pray with the guys, and builds a good sense of unity in the dorm," says TUFW student, Tim Everly. These prayer meetings and Bible studies are held in the rooms of the students and are completely voluntary. "If you have a burden throughout the week, it's good to get it off your mind and tell a friend so they can pray about it with you," stated sophomore, Mark"Weasel" Hammond.

During the course of the year, Vice President Dr. Nienhuis and his wife often shared in Bible studies with the students. He feels well-received and genuinely welcomed by the students.

The Junior-Senior Banquet was planned by: Jenny Fleehart, Deann Harrison, Laura Meinert, Tara Pammett, Tina Squires, and Kari Paker. The banquet was held on April 30, 1994, at the Chamber of Commerce.

The Dave Latchaw Quartet provided dinner music. The dinner catered by Goeglein's, consisted of baked chicken breast, glazed baby carrots, twice-baked potatoes, and cheesecake. Dr. Richard Dugan was the guest speaker. His message incorporated our theme "Be Still And Know. . ." The comedian, Rico Bruce Wade was the special entertainment. Criminal Justice

Tough. Uncommon. Focused on reforming the World.

Wanting to be involved in the development of a new generation of Christian leaders and practitioners for the criminal justice system, Ron Powell came to Taylor University, Fort Wayne.

The criminal justice major Powell brought to TUFW is a study of crime and delinquency; the prevention, control, and treatment of criminal behavior; and the organization, administration, and operations of agencies that function in law enforcement, correction, and the court system. Powell feels that there are chronic problems related to crime in our society and that Christians need to be involved in helping to solve these problems.

His goals for the criminal justice major are to have continued growth in the level of participation in the program; to develop meaningful internship opportunities in criminal justice agencies for the students who are in the criminal justice program; to meet the growing demand for criminal justice graduates to work in law enforcement, juvenile and adult correction, or the court system.

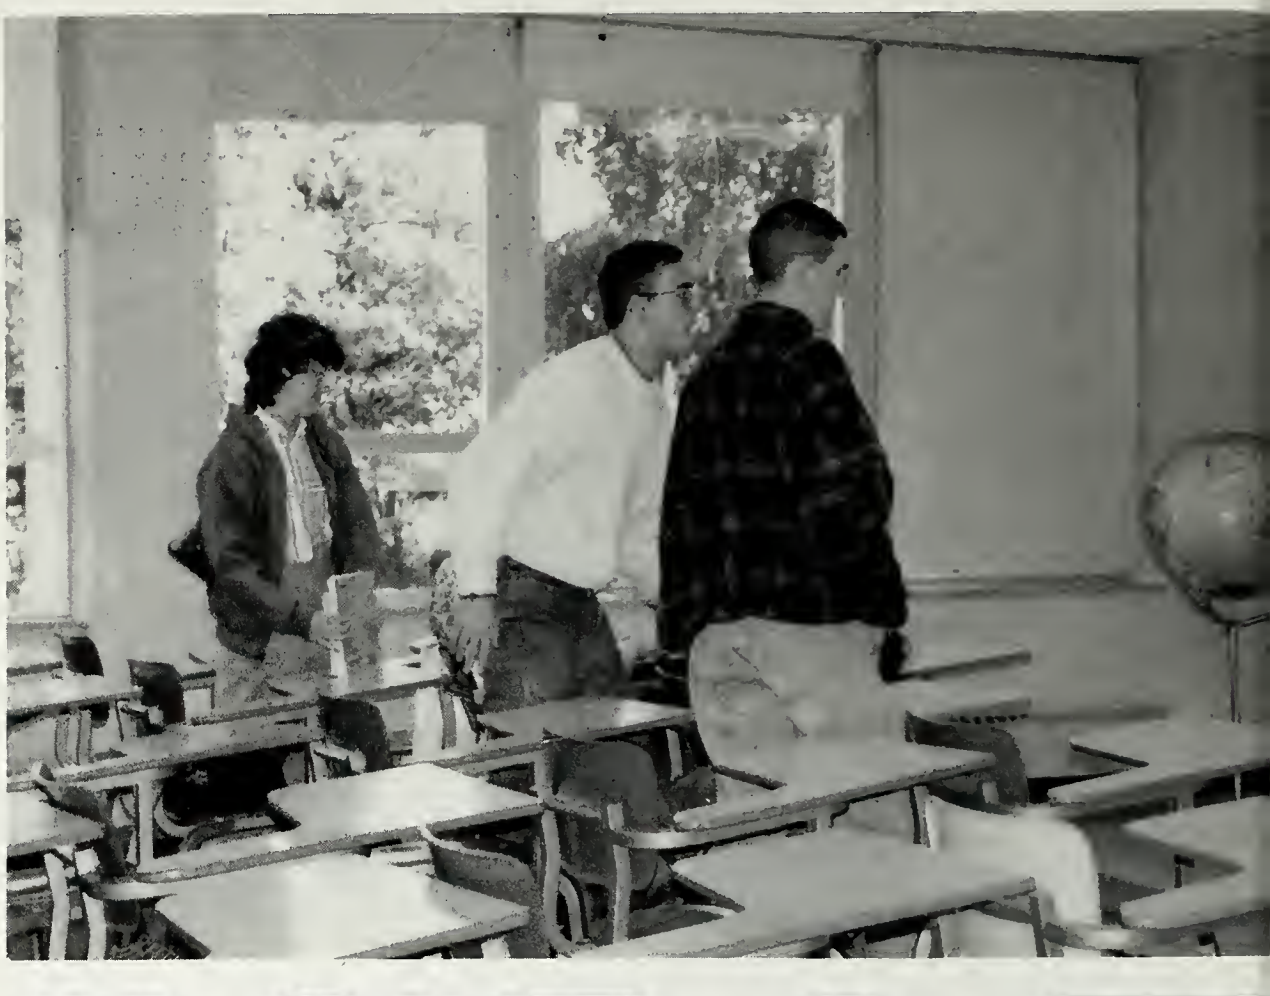
Public Relations

Training and Understanding For the World of relationships

Mark Vermilion felt the Lord leading him into full-time teaching, heard that TUFW was putting together a Public Relations major, and felt it was a good match for what he wanted to do in teaching. "I was drawn to this campus, and drawn to being able to birth a new program." Vermilion commented in an interview.



The new program Vermilion is getting off the ground this semester is public relations—the function of any organization that deals with their relationships with different publics, and works at keeping organiztions, relationships and reputations strong. Public Relations' primary focus is on communication, making it a part of the communication arts department, which will eventually be expanded.

There are twenty students in the Public Relations program so far, and all of them have a good word to say about Vermilion. One student observed, "He's a nice guy, and my favorite professor . . . he's a wise man who provides endless opportunities for what you want to do." Another student stated, "I like him because I can stay awake in his class!"

Public Relations majors are in for quite a future here at TUFW. There will be an emphasis on computer technology, strong writing skills, and work experience. Vermilion's goal is " . . . to be a strong resource for ministry organizations (not for profit) and corporations in the Northern Indiana area, to provide an outreach through doing different types of work shops and training seminars." Vermilion is a professor who cares about his students, and wants them to graduate with strong skill levels, prepared for the work place.

Business

Training Unusual leaders For the business World

A business major at Taylor University, Fort Wayne, got off the ground last year. This year the program is blooming under the leadership of Professor Steve Resch. Students can earn an A.A. or B.A. in business administration. The mission of the business department is to prepare "well-rounded, ethical, competent Christian people for a variety of careers in the competitive world of business."

Accounting and economics are an integral part of a business degree, so this year Dr. Hadley Mitchell joined the T.U.F.W. faculty to teach economics and other business related courses. Dr. Mitchell is very pleased to be part of Taylor University and to have a part in preparing Christians to enter the business world.

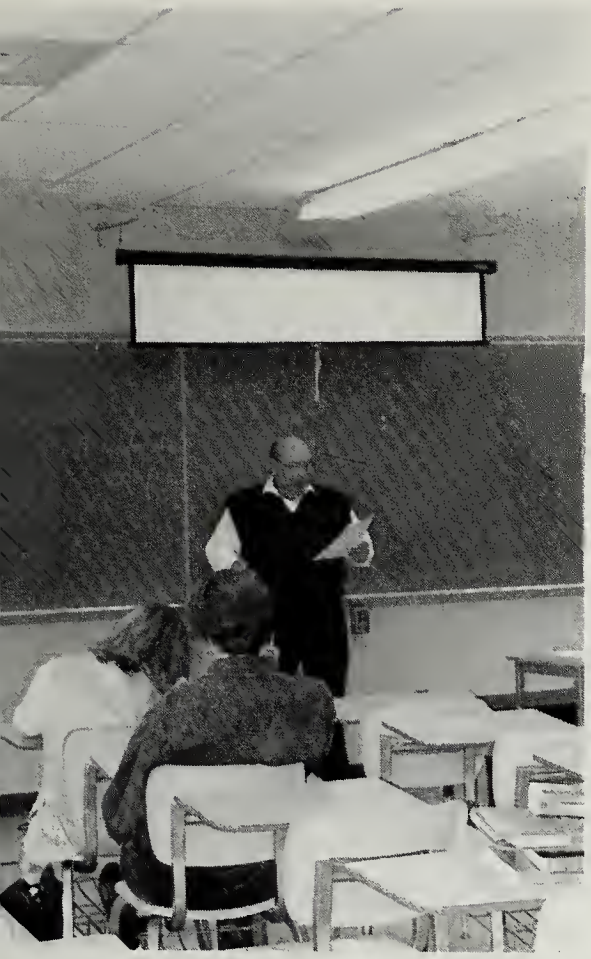
Psychology

Truthful, Uncompromising, Faith-filled, Wise



Taylor seeks to produce truthful, uncompromising, faithfilled and wise counselors. Psychology majors are one of the fastest growing groups on the T.U.F.W. campus. Both Professors Marc Barnes and Joe Martin believe there's a real need for Christians in the field of psychology and seek to integrate the study of human behavior with biblical truths.

Students, majors and non-majors alike, enjoy psychology classes because they learn about themselves, and as Elizabeth Bloom and Jessi Martin put it, "begin to understand where we're headed." Dr. Barnes and Dr. Martin are expecially appreciated by their majors because students know they care. Tina Squires, a new psychology major says, Dr. Martin "enriches each of his classes with real life situations. His examples give his students a better understanding of what psychology is."

Education

Teachers Upholding a Faithful Witness

by: Maria Reynolds

As another school year ends, the education department breathes a sigh of accomplishment. It has been a busy year. Major events were the reviewing of the department, visits of two special speakers, and the hiring of staff.

From March 12 through March 16, members of the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) and members of the Indiana Professional Standards Board visited our campus. "That was just the highlight or culmination of self-examination for the last two years," says Dr. Marilyn Stepnoski, assistant director for education.

There are approximately 1500 teacher education institutions in the U.S. that the NCCTE board reviews. Only four to five hundred receive accreditation.

Reaccreditation will be decided in October of 1994 when the NCATE board votes. Dr. Stepnoski sounded positive: "We had a very favorable report."

On January 26, Delta Pi Sigma sponsored an evening with the Teacher of the Year, Tracy Bailey. In his speech he encouraged students to make their teaching applicable to the everyday lives of their students. Bailey also emphasized the importance of the individual teacher. The Indiana Teacher of the Year, Jacob Mustaphas also spoke that evening.

Dr. Marilyn Stepnoski was hired this year. As the new assistant director for the education department, Stepnoski is looking forward to new possibilities. "We are looking at the feasibility of adding special education and English-as a second language."

Pastoral Ministry and C. E.

Trusting Undivided Hearts Following Him Worship leaders

by: Benjamin Arendt

The Christian Ministry field at TUFW is broad. The Major breaks up into five "track curriculums." Students choose one of these "tracks" and focus on that as a major. These include: Christian Education, Cross-Cultural Ministries, Pastoral Ministries, Urban Ministries, and Youth Ministries.

Junior Tim Everly is a Christian Ministries major with an emphasis on Pastoral Ministries. "I was at a church camp when I got my calling from God to be involved in full time ministry," Everly explains.

Everly said, "Leadership qualities are a must—also, a heart for ministry, and being willing to serve God in any capacity. You must be willing to accept responsibility." Everly plans to be an associate pastor and work with youth.

Sophomore R.A., Eric Flood also is in Christian Ministries. Flood says, "I greatly appreciate the experience and the wisdom of Dr. Biberstein. The teaching is not dry; it is rich with experience and application."

Flood plans to go on to seminary after T.U.F.W., then hopes to become a pastor, or even a teacher of the Bible.

Another R.A., Matt Brown also was led to enroll in the program.

Brown plans to be an associate pastor and ultimately, "I want to be a missionary to an unreached people group." Brown's comment on the motives of CM majors: "Do it because you love God, and for no other reason."

General Studies

gen. ed. classes: The Useful Filler in the academic World

All students at Taylor are required to complete common educational requirements. These general education classes make up a major part of every student's class load. All students have to take such courses as Expository Writing, Biblical Literature I and II, Art as Experience and Fitness for Life. Some students (those working on a B.A. degree) have to take a language, so they can be found in Spanish or Greek class. Everyone needs a literature course and one or two science courses so students choose between American Literature or World Masterpices and between Environment and Man or General Biology.

In fact, students and faculty spend a lot of time in general studies classes. These are designed to give the Taylor graduate a well-rounded liberal arts education. While it may ocassionally seem like a chore to get through a gen. ed. class, students find courses outside their major area valuable and sometimes more fun than anticipated.

KICKIN' 4 THE KING

A team with a testimony

Although the '93 soccer team worked hard and went all out to win, the major purpose of the team was to glorify God. While the season may not have seemed successful from a statistical standpoint, it was extremely successful in establishing team unity and school spirit. The record is not indicative of many accomplishments that were made and the outstanding individual efforts represented on the team. The most exciting aspect of the season had to be seeing the growth and improvement of new, as well as, returning players in terms of their abilities in soccer and their commitment to Christ on the field. The 1993 Falcon Soccer Team illustrated Christ-like attitudes and true sportsmanship through their competititon.

DOIN' THE BUMP

Unity off the court and on

With determined dedication the TUFW Lady Falcons practiced during the summer and during school to prepare to play some of the toughest teams around. They developed excellent skills including serving, bumping, and spiking.

"They played well as a team", said coach, Sharon Gerig, "unity is a key in any sport. Our ultimate goal is to glorify God."

Although frustrations were sometimes overwhelming, the Falcons pulled together and worked as a team. TUFW played many secular colleges this season, and the attitudes of the players on the court and on the road showed their dedication to the Lord. What an encouraging and excellent way to show Christ to others.

Taylor has a strong nucleus of returning players for next year, so be encouraged to cheer the team on to another successful season.

The Savvy Seven

The Lady Falcons 4-14 season does not reflect the true effort of these players. When they were behind, they would play as if they were behind by only one point! Thus they made enormous improvement between the first practices and the last ones. Sometimes they were behind only one point by the end of the season.

With only three returning players and a new coach, the Falcons made a great effort to use their abilities to glorify God for TUFW. A few newcomers made for an exciting season as well. Coach Brown said, "If the fans can come and enjoy a well-played game, they'll keep coming back." And so they did. Thanks to the Falcon fans for all of your support and encouragement!

Cheerleading

"Hey Taylor: Unite, Fight, Win!"

by: Lance Christian Stiver

"Just try it!" encourages sophomore cheerleader Dave Figgins, "It's a good way to show school spirit and support the teams."

The 1993-94 cheerleading squad combined their talents again for another memorable season. "It's one of those things where if you're having a bad day, and nothing seems to go right, cheerleading has taught me to be cheerful even when I don't feel like it," comments freshman, Carrie Wheeler.

When you think of cheerleading, you really don't think of all the work that goes into it. "They put in an incredible amount of hours," says Holly Wright, cheerleading advisor. Wright says they deserve a lot of credit and that they should be proud of the way they've improved.

Many of the members of the squad mentioned the characteristics involved in cheerleading. "It's a good way to show enthusiasm," remarks junior, Tim Bork. Members also said that it built self esteem, confidence, responsibility, dedication, and teamwork.

Remembering their most embarrassing moments brought laughter and sighs. "I did the ol'land-flat-on-the-floor-dismount," remembered freshman, Cliff Pappe. Others reflected on getting dropped, collapsing and the famous "chair toss".

They all found that encouragement, patience, and the ability to laugh at their own mistakes were all factors in the cheerleading experience this season.

Intramurals

Intramural season brings memorable highlights

by: Weasel Hammond

"Intramurals is a good time to get all the wings together and compete athletically in a Christian atmosphere," says sophomore, Brett Carlson. Taylor students, faculty and staff competed all year long in more than 15 events. Participation in these events brought about many memorable moments.

Graduate Corey Laster headed up the intramural program. "Our main goal was to provide students with recreation and fun times," says Laster. "My biggest highlight was winning the floor hockey championship over Ken Schrock's wing," says Carlson. Carlson played for Eric Flood's wing which took the overall 1994 T.U.F.W. intramural championship. Flood comments, "I was just blessed with great, talented guys who loved to participate!"

Sophomore Erica Galbraith says, "It's a good way to have a study break." What's that Erica? A good BREAK?! Galbraith continued, "Well, it was until I broke my collar bone!" Galbraith was playing women's flag football, reaching for her opponent's flag when her opponent fell, causing Erica to fall on her shoulder. OUCH!

Intramurals also helped off-campus students and freshmen get to know the returning students. Freshman Victor Brown says, "I have been able to interact with the on-campus students more because of intramurals." Flood adds, "Intramurals were beneficial in helping guys get to know each other and form team unity." Students also competed with professors. After an intense season, Dr. Wes fought off the younger competition to caputre the highly esteemed 1994 Ping Pong title.

Unleashed! Free! Winners!

"Do you not know that those who run in a race all run, but only one receives a prize? Run in such a way that you may win." I Corinthians 9:24 (NASB)

At the time of year when the rest of us are struggling with "spring fever," seniors are experiencing the final stages of "senioritis." Symptoms include extreme mood swings, from "I-don't-care-anymore" apathy, to "I'm-outta-here" rebellion, to "Don't-you-dare-ask-me-one-more-time-what-I'm-going-to-do-when-I-graduate" anxiety, to "I-guess-I-really-am-going-to-miss-you-guys" sentimentality.

At the beginning of their college career--at the starting line of the race--these students were as pumped and ready to run as any freshman. Gaining momentum during their sophomore year, majors were debated and decided amidst the dust kicked up by the merger of Summit and Taylor. Rounding the bend in their junior year, they could sense God's promise to be faithful in completing the work He had begun in them. Now, straining to break the ribbon stretched across the finish line, the seniors are rushing toward the coveted prize.

Along the way, professors were there cheering them on. Parents and friends in the stands watched as God trained and strengthened them for the course that lay before. Classmates challenged and sharpened each other as they ran alongside. The prize they will obtain is not simply a temporal diploma, but an eternal award for keeping their eyes fixed on Christ. The record they leave behind for us to break is an example of the excellence expected of a Taylor graduate and a disciple of Christ.

The senior class purchased picnic tables and park benches for the campus and dedicated the 1994 Senior class gift In Memory of Gary Litwiller and Jan Kirkman.

Studying together at the Hollow in the pool room.

Going to Powers and on the way home having a belching contest.

Seniorisms

An all nighter together at Azars with a Greek and Wes test in four hours.

Spending hours together pouring over the newest Taylor Catalog wondering if we will really graduate.

The senior class scripture was Jeremiah 29:11 "For I know the plans I have for you," declares the Lord, "plans to give you a hope and a future."

Graduation

Going Forth Committed to Standing Firm

Baccalaureate ceremonies were held on May 13, 1994. The graduating class was pleased that Dr. Etta Miller accepted their invitation to be the Baccalaureate speaker. Dr. Miller urged seniors to always focus on Jesus. She encouraged them to be concerned about being in and doing God's will now, in the present.

Commencement exercises were held on May 21, 1994. President Jay Kesler presided over the ceremonies. Kari Parker, senior class treasurer, gave the invocation. Crista Cloyd, senior class secretary, read the senior class scripture. In his address to his classmates, senior class president, Matt Level, encouraged his peers to go out and serve Christ with their lives and on behalf of his classmates thanked parents, friends, and facutly for helping the seniors achieve their goals. Allen Wise, senior class vice president, offered prayer, and senior, Kelly Lerch, sang "Find Us Faithful."

Dr. Robert Nienhuis, Vice President for the Fort Wayne Campus gave the keynote address, "With Both Feet Firmly Planted." He encouraged graduates to stand firm on the foundation of their Taylor education and to remain faithful to their calling as Christians to be light in the world. Four Associate of Arts degrees, 27 Bachelor of Arts degrees, and 16 Bachelor of Science degrees were conferred by President Jay Kesler, Provost Daryl Yost, Vice President Robert Nienhuis, and Associate Registrar James Hendrix.

Closing Thoughts

Tired & Under stress, but Finally We're done!!

"O Lord, You are my God. I will exalt You and praise Your name, for in perfect faithfulness You have done marvelous things, things planned long ago." Is. 25:1

Who could have predicted this moment? It's the end of the year--Taylor Fort Wayne's 2nd birthday. How many of us could have known the changes, both in our circumstances and in ourselves, that occurred this year? How many can anticipate what lies, ahead--both for Taylor Fort Wayne and her family?

In the Vine office, no one could have predicted how this year's book would turn out. At times we wondered if it would turn out! Despite nightmares of lost photos and autograph art, drained creativity on "TUFW" words, and faith-stretching deadlines, we made it--just in time, before God takes us in different directions.

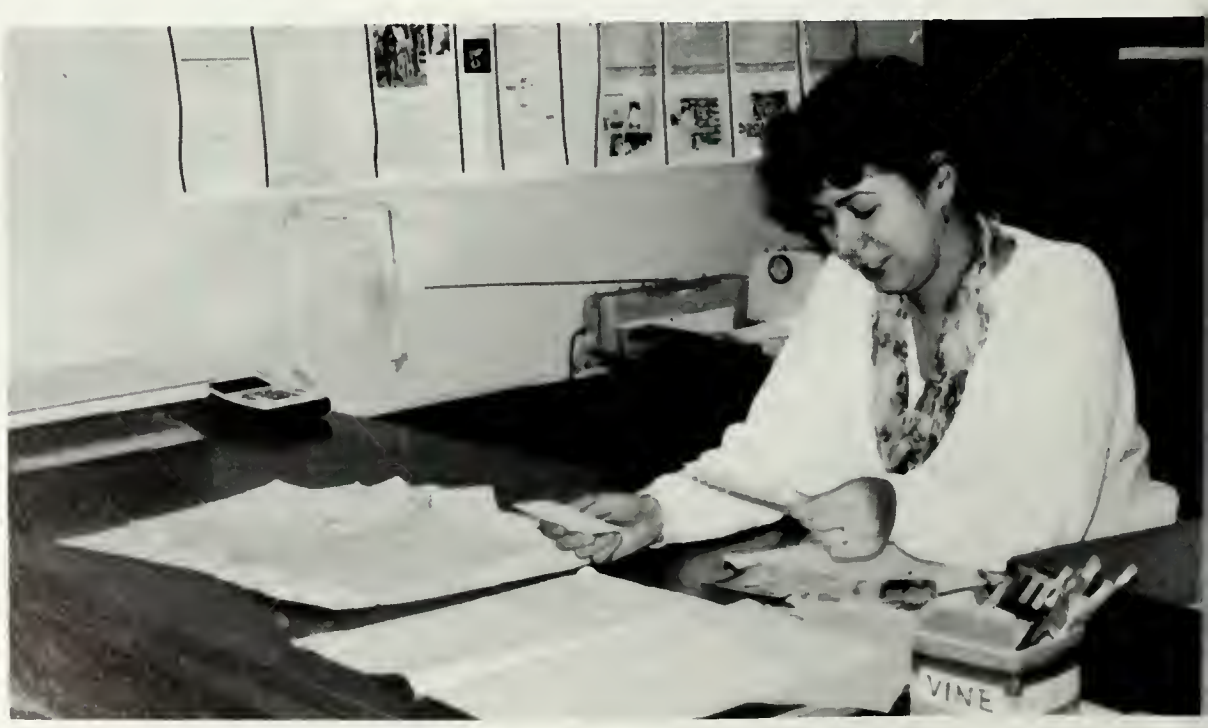
Meichelle Long


A big thanks to Christa Allaby and Hans Kindsgrab, co-editors of the 1993-1994 Vine; and a big thanks to Monte Meyer, photography editor and Laura Meinert, Student Life editor as well as Meichelle Long, Sports editor. A special hats off to Sara Shelley and Vanessa Furlich for their help with lots of things and to Lois Roth for typing our copy. We appreciate help with photography from Mandy Waters, Brent Teddy, Ben Arendt, Janis MacLeish, and Ceij Beers, as well as Jim Garringer. We'd also like to acknowledge Lynn Hartzell and Kevin Meinert for art work and Mark Vermilion's journalism class for providing copy. Thanks also to Sheila Combs and Jenny Fleehart for their help. Last but not least, thank you Fred Henderson, our Herff Jones representative, and Pam Jordan, our yearbook advisor.
